IGSuite History

IGSuite was born in 1998 when there wasn't any valid web-based groupware system available. We wanted a complete groupware system, so in the absence of anything that met our needs we decided to program our own. That was a long time ago (in IT terms at least :-)) and since then IGSuite matured into the fantastic open source groupware solution we can provide today.

IGSuite it's free and free

IGSuite is available as free software, complete with the source code and is licensed under the [\[wikipedia:GNU General Public License\]](#). What does this mean? The whole thing is free, not only as in 'free use', but as in 'free speech' as well.

Minimum Requirements

IGSuite can be installed on Window and Linux/Unix platforms. The fundamental requirements for a successful installation are the Perl interpreter and a database. You can chose between PostgreSQL and MySQL. All the information about the installation can be found inside the package.
